

Apache Airavata Science Gateways Framework

The talk will introduce Apache Airavata, a middleware for creating science gateways. Airavata will help provide science-specific user interfaces for scientific applications to end users who are unfamiliar with or need more capabilities than provided by command-line interfaces.

Bio: Suresh Marru is a Member of the Apache Software Foundation and is the current PMC chair of the Apache Airavata project. He is the deputy director of the Science Gateways Research Center at Indiana University.